

Leadership By Design

You are a parent of a Grade 10 student who identifies as Black, African-Caribbean or African-Canadian. You've always wished for an individual or organization to step in and add to your efforts to help your child succeed. You believe your child's prospects for future success would be enhanced by the learning of leadership skills, an effective career development program, and the provision of opportunities which amplify their talents and optimize their ambitions. We agree!

The Leadership by Design (LBD) program provides virtual courses and in-person Saturday learning sessions at university sites, career exploration, mentoring, skills-focused workshops, social and cultural events, and more. We also fully engage parents. The LBD program is a community of students, parents, educators, industry professional, and volunteers...all committed to the success of our students...your child. We only ask that students commit to learning and to seizing the opportunities we provide over some seven years - Grade 10 through to post-secondary graduation and beyond.

The LBD program is free and includes:

- Leadership skills
- Mentorship
- Skill-building workshops
- Career exploration
- STEM program - UofT
- Coding and robotics courses
- Telescopes & Astronomy
- Goal Setting
- Summer enrichment programs
- Meetings at university locations
- Business and Entrepreneurship
- Scholarships

Applications are now invited from Black students who will be enrolled in Grade 10 academic level courses. Find LBD program information, the application guide, and online application here: <https://lileaders.com/lbd>

The application deadline is Friday, September 15, 2023.
Applications are reviewed on a rolling basis.
Apply early. Space is limited.
